

I've checked out the report from Duncan re "Wadsworth 34" through Middle Dean Wood. Whilst I agree with Duncan, this does seem a strange route. Presumably there would have been a sluice gate in the gap, at some stage in the past, that would have prevented walking the route at all.

I can see no evidence of a bridge ever existing.

Nevertheless I've passed it to my colleague in maintenance to try & improve it & make safe.