Full Details: At the top of Boston Hill in Old Town, the footpath at the end of the gardens is so overgrown that walkers are using the field next to it. The wall at the southern end of the footpath has collapsed, probably due to people climbing over it to get in the field. The wall at the northern end has also collapsed but this is on the bend in the road and looks as if a vehicle has run into it. Photographs have been taken and can be emailed on request.
